Book Synopsis

Pursued by the state government for experiencing exponential growth after engaging Jordon Belfort -- The Wolf of Wall Street -- industry training leader Paul Conquest sets the record straight. Delving into the murky waters of government funded training in Queensland, this is the brutally honest account of everything leading to the collapse of Face-to-Face Training in late 2015. From his early childhood in a housing commission home, where substance and alcohol abuse were a way of life, to the witch-hunt that devastated hundreds of honest working Australians, Paul describes in candid detail how he fought his debilitating fears and addiction, reunited with the daughter he never knew he had, built and lost multi-million dollar companies, and learnt to start all over again...and again. This book is about Paul, warts and all -- humorous, honest, engaging, and dripping cheerfully in self-ridicule. This is a truth well told. About the Author: Paul Conquest is a serial entrepreneur. He has launched numerous multi-million dollar companies from scratch, and has turned the knowledge and experience he has learned along the way into writing this book. He lives by his own practical rules, turning problems into solutions and opportunities to achieve success. The Truth Well Told is his first book.
